

April 3, 2020 Update

Hello Healers,

A Friday HIGH-FIVE to our Faculty and Students navigating new landscapes and pathways. You continue to create, innovate, and amaze.

“...we all live at the intersection of our small worlds and the big one around us. If we want to serve others, we must attend to both.” -Parker J. Palmer

What's New:

1. Access: You must have your badge with you and must go through the screening process. At the college, only employees and individual students are allowed access. If you are in need of resources for family members let us know and we will work to get them to you. Please do not open the college doors to let others in; we all must go through screening.
2. Due to the emphasis on social distancing-please make every effort to take your exams and quizzes at home unless you fall into one of the two categories below.
 - a. If have received accommodations from the testing center, you may choose to come to campus to take your exams. Please email Sheri Paneitz and/or Brenda Neemann to be assigned a classroom for testing.
 - b. If you do not have access to a reliable internet connection for your test please email Sheri Paneitz and/or Brenda Neemann to be assigned a classroom for testing.
3. Updates regarding the college's summer term will be sent out next week.
4. A reminder to all students, as we continue online instruction through the remainder of the term, we thank you for continued adherence to the code of conduct and integrity policy.

Healing Acts:

I was on a conference call last night with Dr. Paul Illich, president of Southeast Community College. SCC is now teaching online as well. He mentioned that chefs in their culinary program were still cooking and distributing that food to those in need.

Earlier in the day, I went to our volunteer services office to pick up some bags of donated handmade facemasks to have on hand for student/staff. My favorite was one with pink flamingos!

Even during a long shadow, amazing rays of light find their way through, illuminating our best natures.

Forward. Together.

Rich Lloyd, President
